

More ways to share

Learn together, one small step.

Look closely

Can you give something kind with no money in your pocket?

Story 1 / 3

Mimi's friend was home sick. Other children were making cards, but Mimi had no coloured paper or stickers. Looking at her empty hands, she felt she had nothing to offer.

Pause and ask: Does Mimi really have nothing to offer? Find one of her abilities.

Story 2 / 3

With a parent's help, she called her friend. 'I missed today's story,' the friend said. Mimi brightened. 'I can tell it to you!'

Pause and ask: How could she check that her friend wants to listen?

Story 3 / 3

She told the story in her own words and stopped when her friend grew tired. Later she helped remember what to bring to class. Time, patience and help could be shared too.

Pause and ask: Why should we notice when someone wants to stop?

A Buddhist idea

Time and patience can be shared. Giving should be willing.

Talk together

What did Mimi share?

Why was stopping when her friend felt tired a kind choice?

Try an activity

Draw a skill, some time or a small help you could offer.

For grown-ups

Read aloud, discuss and try a small activity.

Stories and exercises: BlessFu

Illustrations: AI-assisted

Full references and guidance are in the companion booklet.

